DEAN'S MESSAGE

Successful professionals constantly reinvent themselves. As you consider your next career move, look to acquire the capabilities and experiences that will help you take advantage of the opportunities that a rapidly changing business world will present to you. Perhaps you are looking to contribute at a much higher level within your current organization. Alternatively, you may be looking to explore opportunities in other organizations and sectors. Or perhaps you want to parlay your corporate experience into a new entrepreneurial venture. In all these career-enhancing scenarios, a solid grounding in core management principles, an exposure to functions outside your existing expertise, and networking with like-minded professionals with similar goals, may be the difference between success and failure.

SPJIMR's AICTE-approved weekend PGPGM programme in general management is designed for experienced professionals looking to turbo-charge or change their current career trajectory. Our world-class faculty deploy a unique application-oriented pedagogy that relates the weekend's classroom activities and assignments to the programme participant's immediate work activities during the week. Additionally, stimulating and small-sized classroom discussions with a motivated cohort expose participants to a broad range of perspectives, roles, and opportunities. As a result, programme participants maximize new learning while also excelling in their day jobs.

I welcome you to engage with our unique programme - let SPJIMR play a key role in your reinvention.

Dr. Varun Nagaraj
Dean

Dr. Nagaraj has over 30 years of experience in Boston and Silicon Valley, during which he held CEO and other executive leadership roles. He holds a PhD from Case Western Reserve University, MBA from Boston University and a B. Tech from IIT Bombay. His areas of interest include product innovation and digital transformation.

ASSOCIATE DEAN'S MESSAGE

S PJIMR is committed to influencing practice and promoting value-based growth and this is reflected in all our programmes and pedagogic initiatives. Our programmes are highly experiential, with a strong mix of conceptual knowledge and a larger element of learning through doing. Our faculty group constitutes a mix of traditional academics and corporate leaders who bring in a healthy blend of theory and practice. This approach has helped us build a reputation in the executive management space with strong industry partnerships. The learning process at PGPGM is focused on inculcating in its participants, sensitivity to real world issues and an ability to become leaders and change agents.

Dr. Preeta George

Associate Dean

Dr. George has over 25 years of experience ranges from teaching MBA students as well as training mid-senior level executives both in India and abroad. She has done Ph.D. in Economics from BITS Pilani.

CHAIRPERSON SPEAKS

Success is achieved through a combination of inspiration and perspiration and the PGPGM programme offers the opportunity for both. Inspiration comes from PGPGM alumni who have done exceedingly well in their careers, from faculty who ensure that you draw learnings which can be directly applied to your job roles, from industry leaders who share rich insights, and of course from classmates who are high performers in their own fields. Perspiration is the effort participants put in, and this effort is supported by a well-defined learning process. Our TLAP model leverages application assignments and capstone projects to enable participants to apply the concepts learnt to their organization's context.

Dr. Ruppal W Sharma

Chairperson PGPGM

Dr. Sharma has over 25 years of work experience across industry and academia in the area of Marketing. She has done a PhD in Marketing from BITS Pilani.

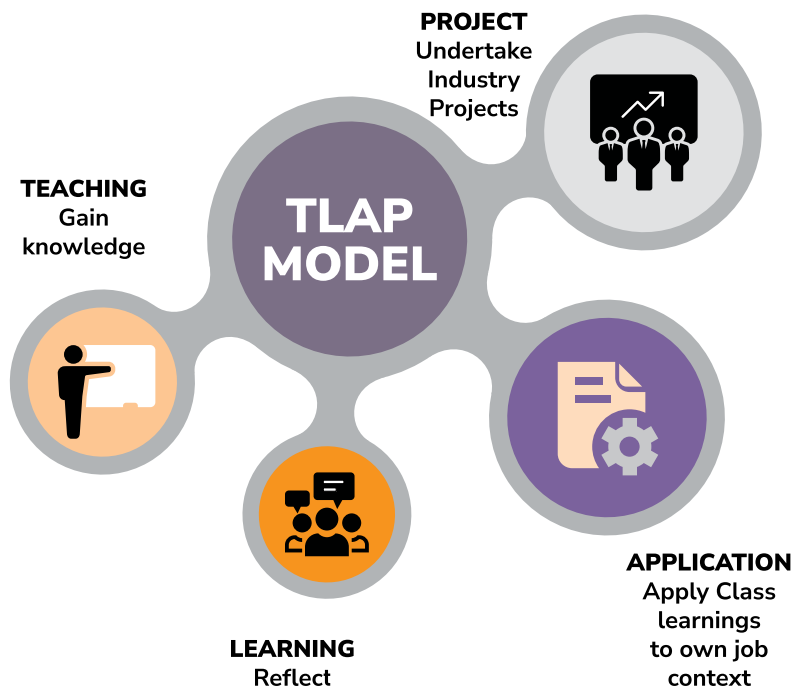

PGPGM OBJECTIVES

The objective of PGPGM is to help shape leaders for tomorrow, layering functional knowledge with a general management perspective. The programme aims to build knowledge, skills and attitude, ensuring that participants will be:

- Proficient in problem-solving with an integrative approach
- Innovative thinkers driving change in a dynamic business environment
- Responsible leaders with sensitive stakeholder management

UNIQUE TLAP MODEL

While most executive education programmes begin and end in the classrooms - Teaching and Learning, PGPGM adds two additional steps - Application (applying classroom learning to their own job context) and Project (formulating a major project for the company).

PEDAGOGY

The participants are exposed to concepts and applications through a carefully crafted blend of various pedagogic methods including case analysis and discussions, games and simulations, group activities and presentations, workshops, guest lectures by eminent practitioners, self-learning and reflection.

CAPSTONE PROJECT

Solve real-life business problems by incorporating key concepts and learnings gained throughout the programme. Guided by SPIJMR faculty and industry mentor.

BENEFITS

Build problem solving skills

1

Gain wider exposure to various aspects of business

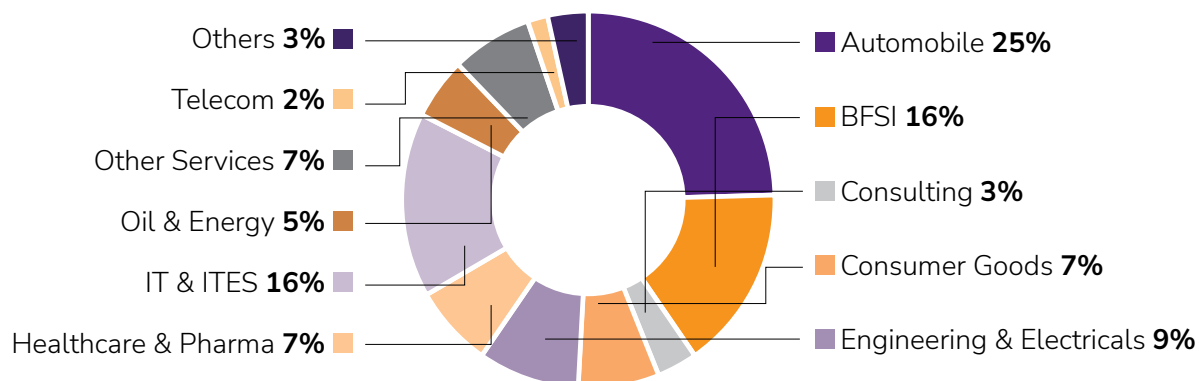

2

Greater visibility and recognition within the company

ALUMNI SPEAK

The way we thought earlier and the way we think now has changed significantly. The Professors in the PGPGM programme had a key role in shaping this. The way managerial concepts were linked to real life made it easy to understand and these have now become embedded in our minds.

Mukul Arora

VP - Change Delivery,
HSBC

The PGPGM programme gave us new eyes to see - not only professionally but personally as well. The subjects we are being taught, are of course good, but the side discussions and examples shared by faculty are invaluable

Vikas Verma,

Group Manager Operations-Infrastructure Division,
HCL Technologies

PGPGM programme has been a life changing journey. The Professors at SPIJMR were like life coaches. I can carry on for the next 50 years on the things I have been taught here

Debjyoti Roy,
